

The Farm of Peace is a 150 acre jointly owned farm that is mostly under hay. We have a small flock of sheep grazing in two fenced pastures, a small fruit orchard, a large vegetable garden, a flock of laying hens, and seasonally we have pastured broiler chickens.

The Farm is also home to a spiritual retreat center and hosts events for the Shadhiliyya Sufi Center East, an area Sufi community (see www.suficentereast.org for more info).

We welcome visitors from all over the country to experience the peace we have found here.

Accommodations

We have two rooms available in our farmhouse. One is on the ground floor the other is upstairs, both with shared hall bathrooms. We have shared DSL internet access in the great room and the. Rates start at $50 per night and breakfast is included.

Where are we?

The Farm of Peace is located in south-central Pennsylvania, about a 2 hour drive from Baltimore or Washington, DC. We are 15 minutes from Hancock, Md., and a half hour from Berkeley Springs, W.V.

Vacation at the Farm of Peace

Join us for a taste of peace and quiet, nature's beauty and a simpler life.

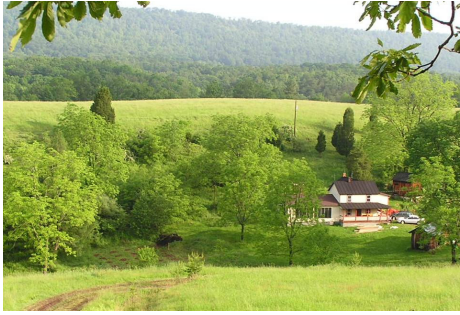

Start your day with a breakfast of eggs fresh from our chickens (you can help collect them!) served in our 100-year-old farmhouse. Visit with our donkeys and sheep (great fun for small children). Hike along our 150 acres of fields, woods and streams.

Maybe you'll be here when lambs are born or for sheep-shearing. In every season, the Farm of Peace offers a chance to explore the many experiences of farm living.

Enjoy a weekend or a week
relaxing in the country
